

Ricardo Junqueira Fujii

Electrical engineer and PhD in Power Systems from Polytechnic School - University of Sao Paulo, developed studies on political, social and environmental aspects of energy resources and on energy sustainability.

Assisted the creation of Sao Paulo Petroleum and Gas Program in 2010. Integrated its executive coordination, held by the Energy Secretariat of the State of São Paulo, when he was responsible for structuring actions for dissemination of economic benefits of Oil & Gas chain and mitigation of its social and environmental impacts.

Currently, he is a member of Climate Change and Energy Program of WWF-Brazil, conducting studies, developing tools and advocating for the dissemination of alternative energy resources and the development of the low carbon economy.